10,000 CHINESE TROOPS CHASING BANDITS WHO CAPTURED FOREIGNERS

All Women Prisoners Reported Released and One American Shot—No Specific News of Miss Aldrich—Outlaw Army Increased to 8,000.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Shanghai, May 7.—Ten thousand Chinese troops today were in pursuit of the bandit army which captured the Shanghai-Peking express, capturing 17 Americans and 12 other foreigners, including subjects of England, France and Italy. The bandit army today had increased from the estimated 1,000 who wrecked the train and captured its passengers, to 8,000, having been strengthened by additions of well armed disbanded troops and notorious bandits.

Of the 300 odd passengers aboard the express train—one of China's crack trains—only 6 foreigners and 27 Chinese escaped the bandit horde which surrounded the train as it left the tracks at a point in Shantung province selected by the bandit chieftains for the holdup.

Despite reports of the release of Miss Aldrich, no direct word has yet been received here from her. She is on a tour around the world from New York via India and had visited here for ten days. She had intended going to Peking, Japan and then to Europe.

A one American is reported to have been shot in clashes between soldiers and bandits. The women were detained and were in grave danger at latest reports, owing to the severity of the gun fire.

Among the Americans captured was Lloyd LaRue, former assistant editor of the Chicago American and now a member of the staff of the China Press of Shanghai, and J. B. Howell, former professor of journalism at the University of Missouri. It is understood that there were only two women prisoners. It is Miss Lucy Aldrich of New York, who was a passenger on the train, was among the captured it is assumed that she is safe.

Grave fears have been aroused by a report that the bandits issued an ultimatum warning that all the captured foreigners would be killed unless the Chinese soldiers withdrew.

New York, May 7.—Word was being anxiously awaited today as to the fate of Miss Lucy Aldrich of New York by her brother, Winthrop W. Aldrich, attorney, Miss Aldrich is the sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and daughter of the late United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island.

Miss Aldrich is very wealthy in her own right. Her father left an estate estimated at $30,000,000 which was shared in by the late senator's eight children. Miss Aldrich started on a world tour last October, accompanied by a maid and traveling companion, Miss Minnie McFadden, of Providence, R. I.

CHINESE CHAOS COMING TO HEAD

Latest Example of Pekin's Impotency May Bring Concerted Action by Powers to Protect Their Nationals.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 7.—Official confirmation was received here today of the capture of nineteen foreigners including some Americans by Chinese bandits in the province of Shantung. It is assumed that Miss Lucy Aldrich, sister of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is among the Americans taken.

One foreigner lost his life in the fighting that accompanied the train holdup. He has been identified as a British subject named Roseman. While officials were inclined to await additional details today before commenting upon the outrage, it was radically conceded that a most serious situation has been brought about this latest bandit coup which took place in one of the most thickly populated sections of China.

It is a situation, admittedly, that may call for joint action upon the part of the great powers to compel China to afford reasonable protection to the lives and properties of foreign residents in China. There are numerous precedents for such joint action upon the part of the great powers.

A prompt and vigorous protest may be made by the United States as soon as sufficient facts are ascertained. It is said Minister Schurman has already made some representations to the Chinese government.

So far as the United States alone is concerned, the situation is aggravated as the bandit raid comes close on the heels of the Coltan case, not yet cleared up, in which this government has made strong demands upon the Pekin government. Charles Coltan, an American business man, was murdered and the American consul accompanying was fired upon last December by provincial authorities and thus far the Chinese have not taken steps in this matter satisfactory to the United States.

Conditions in China have been steadily growing worse for months according to official advices to Washington. Banditry always prevalent in times of comparative peace and tranquility has increased by leaps and bounds in recent months. Conditions are comparative, it was stated today, to Mexico during the worst period, when dozens of bandit gangs operating as independent armies, roamed the provinces at will, living off the country and committing depredations where it pleased them.

The central government at Pekin, weak to the point of falling and without finances has been unable to cope with conditions. Pekin stands between two fires—the contemptuous disregard of Chang Tse Lin, the powerful war lord of the north, and the open rebellion of the South China government at Canton, headed by the ally Dr. Sun Yat Sen. Tachins or provincial governors refuse to pay taxes to the central government and operate their own little armies as they please.

The holdup of the Pekin-Shanghai express, comparable to a holdup of a New York-Chicago train, is thus indicative of the general condition that prevails throughout China, according to information here. And this incident admittedly may bring to a head the dissatisfaction that all the world powers feel over the Chinese situation.

For its own nationals, the American government will demand immediate release, indemnification for losses and injuries incurred, and a formal apology, accompanied by energetic governmental efforts to capture and suitably punish those responsible for the outrage.

LEHRBAS ESCAPES FROM BANDITS

Miss Aldrich, Barefoot and Scantily Clad, Was Being Goaded Along When He Last Saw Her.

By Lloyd Lehrbas.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Shanghai, May 7.—At 2 a. m. Sunday the train on which we were proceeding northward stopped.

I heard rifle firing and crashing of glass as the windows of the train were broken. Realizing danger was at hand, I rolled out of and under the sleeping car berth.

Six bandits climbed through the broken windows and apparently diving that passengers would seek to hide under berths, one of them thrust a gun under my berth, hitting me on the side.

At his order I came out from underneath the berth and he struck me with the gun in the face.

The blow was so severe I was staggered but brushed the gun aside. The bandit marched me down the aisle to a file along the side of the track where the train had been stopped.

There I could see women in night gowns and their bare feet and men in pajamas walking ahead through the fields and towards the mountains.

The bandits were carrying loot they had taken from the train on their shoulders.

My guard kept by my side but when he and others stopped to rearrange the burden of the loot they were carrying on their shoulders, I made a break for liberty.

The tall grain in the fields was my salvation. I fell upon my stomach and for three hours crawled upon my hands and knees through the waving grain.

I then, by detour, made my way back to the looted train.

There I found one dead, an Englishman, who had been shot through the jaw and two escaped Americans.

With the coming of daylight Mrs. Allen, wife of Major Allen, of the United States Army, Mrs. Hunter, wife of Major Hunter of Manila and her son, clad only in nightgowns and with bleeding feet arrived exhausted. They told us they had walked five hours barefooted in the roughest sort of country.

They were beaten and slapped by the bandits as they filtered from the train and towards the mountains.

When the women dropped exhaustedly on the ground, apparently seeking to make speed, left them lying on the ground.

They were rescued by pursuing soldiers who directed them on their return to the train.

Majors Allen and Pinter who were among the Americans made captive, were badly beaten by the bandits when they sought to come to the aid of their wives and children.

Miss Lucy Aldrich, of New York, was captured by a raged bandit who was a queer around his head.

The sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was roughly treated by her captor.

She was last seen walking bare footed through the fields with other women still captive under heavy guard. They were being goaded on by the bandits. Chinese soldiers were slow to pursue the bandits. The first arrivals seemed to await reinforcements.

My clothes and money gone, I boarded a Shanghai train to return here.

I met a French priest who told me that 500 bandits held a big ox feast the night before the holdup, to plan the hold operation.

HOWARD MAY FACE MURDER CHARGE

Negro Employee On Sturgeon Pool Dam Shoots Martin Carlson, When Latter Tells Him To Let White Girls Alone—Carlson In Serious Condition.

Louis Howard, negro, aged 28, of 626 Penn. Alley, Baltimore, Md., is in the Ulster county jail, being held to answer to a charge which may be murder in the first degree, having shot a man at Riffon Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock. The man whom he shot is Martin Carlson, a Swede, aged 36, who is in the Kingston City Hospital, his condition being reported serious.

Both men were employed by the Foundation Company that is erecting the water power dam at Sturgeon Pool, near Riffon. The story of the shooting as obtained by Sheriff Koits, undersheriff Haukenbeck and Deputy Sheriff Jocelyn, who upon being notified of the shooting arrived at the scene about 4.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon and by an ante mortem statement made at the hospital by Carlson, who previously identified Howard who was taken before him at the hospital as the one who shot him, is that while sitting on a bank with another man, they enjoying the sun, both not working Sunday.

Howard and a couple of other negroes came along. They had a bottle of liquor, offered them a drink which was accepted, and while doing so some white young women passed by. The negroes endeavored to attract the attention of the young women and first with them and to this Carlson called out to the negroes to "quit that and leave the girls alone."

This angered Howard who started for the shack where he lodged, muttering "You wait, and I'll blow you to hell." He returned quickly and fired three shots at Carlson, one hitting him, according to Carlson's statement and then he remembered no more. According to some witnesses, four shots were fired, three going wild, and then, Carlson standing up with arms upraised, asked Howard not to shoot. The story is that the fourth shot took effect striking Carlson on the breast bone under the chin taking a downward course and Carlson when he fell over unconscious.

Howard ran away into the bushes nearby and threw away the revolver, a score more of men in pursuit headed by William Pintard. The shooter was caught and escorted by the party aided by a shotgun, to the office of the construction company bound up with a rope and held captive until the sheriff and party arrived, to whom he was turned over. He denied to the sheriff's party that he had done the shooting, and as Carlson had been taken to the hospital in this city, and it was learned his condition was serious, Howard was taken to the hospital by the Len V. Groan ambulance service where in the presence of the sheriff, undersheriff, the deputy, Police Sergeant Phinney and doctors, and nurses Carlson identified Howard as the one who had shot him. Later Carlson made his ante mortem statement to Sergeant Phinney.

Carlson is partially paralyzed it was said from his head down and hopes for his recovery are very slight.

HOW SMALLPOX DEVELOPED HERE

Young Child of W. H. Longyear, Photographer, Contracted Disease in Florida—Pupils at School No. 7 Vaccinated—Free Vaccination Clinic Tuesday.

Dr. Frank A. Johnston, health officer, and Dr. Laddlaw, state sanitary inspector of this district, were busy all morning vaccinating two hundred children at Public School No. 7, on Crown street, who had been exposed to smallpox. The doctors were assisted by Mr. Mary O'Neil, city health nurse, and Miss Doris Haebruck, baby welfare nurse. This afternoon the remainder of the pupils and the faculty of the school were vaccinated. The health officials had the cooperation of the parents.

No new cases of smallpox developed in Kingston over Sunday.

The second case of smallpox reported Saturday is still under observation, and the state authorities have not yet definitely pronounced it smallpox, but in order to be absolutely safe the case was promptly isolated and quarantined. It is smallpox it is an extremely mild case.

Smallpox was brought here by a child of William H. Longyear, the photographer of No. 55 John street. The family had been wintering in Florida and the child contracted the disease in St. Augustine, and was taken on shipboard on the way home. When the Longyear family arrived in Kingston they went to the home of George Bush at No. 115 Franklin street, where they spent a week.

From the Bush residence the Longyear family went to their home on John street and the child began attending School No. 7. As soon as the health authorities ascertained how Mr. Bush contracted smallpox the Longyear family was promptly placed under strict quarantine and isolated.

The health board Tuesday morning from 9 to 11 o'clock will conduct a free vaccination clinic for children of pre-school age at the city laboratory on John street.

Wednesday, the pupils at St. Joseph's School will be vaccinated. Dr. Mark O'Meara will assist Dr. Johnston and Laddlaw in the work.

In addition to vaccinating the pupils and faculty of School No. 7, all persons who are known to have come into contact with the Longyear family or Mr. Bush have been vaccinated.

Every effort is being made by the health board and its officers to prevent a spread of the disease, and it is expected that their work will meet with success.

N. Y. CIRCULATION MANAGERS 17TH TRIP TO CATSKILLS
The New York City Circulation Association will hold their 17th annual outing to the Catskill Mountains May 21, 22, 23 and 24.

They will arrive at Saugerties Tuesday morning. After breakfast at the Maxwell House, the entire party will take an auto trip to Stamford, returning to Schoenher's Hotel, Saugerties, where they will be the guests at dinner of the Greene County, Saugerties and Catskill Business Men's Association and Board of Trade.

On Wednesday, some of the party will take the Hudson River Day Line for the beautiful sail on that historic river. Others will remain over and take the night boat from Saugerties.

This outing is looked upon by the residents of Greene County as the official opening of the Catskills season, as it is the first association that visits the Catskills in a body each year.

FLOOD OF SPURIOUS CHECKS STANDS WALL STREET ON ITS HEAD

Bogus Paper Arrives From All Over East Along With Orders to Buy and Prices Shoot Up—With Discovery Comes Crash in Values and Investigation.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, May 7.—An amazing and almost unprecedented attempt to put over a gigantic fraud on Wall street threw the market into a panic today. It shot up and down in a zig-zaggy fashion and resulted in immediate action on the American Bankers' Association to run down the men behind the skripshu.

It was brand new fraud and by its extreme daring virtually took bank-ers in "the street" off their feet. It was in the form of an avalanche of spurious checks, all arriving at the same time, and carrying the order to "buy."

The checks came from many cities in the east. At the same time, according to information here, checks were sent to brokers in the Philadelphia stock exchange.

Brokers, on receiving the checks, accepted them as bona fide. Immediately a buying movement was under way. Prices shot up. Suddenly, the wildest excitement took place. Traders learned the checks were spurious. Hasty orders to counteract the buying orders were sent forth.

Values immediately broke. The market was in a turmoil. Steel Common, one of the leading stocks in the market, dropped to a new low for the year.

News of the "fake check" fraud was immediately sent to the American Bankers' Association. Fifteen investigators were put to work at once.

Investigation revealed that the fake letters and checks came from many cities. The letters were all on the same kind of paper. They had all been mailed Saturday afternoon, apparently timed to reach Wall street shortly after the opening of the market today.

They came from the following, among other cities: Harrisburg, York, Allentown, Bethlehem and Reading, Pennsylvania; Annapolis, Schenectady, and Utica, N. Y.; North Adams and Pittsfield, Mass., and from towns and cities in other states.

Shortly after the discovery of the attempted hoax on Wall street the tickers brought in the news that members of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange had received similar checks and communications. The exchange there sent out a warning to brokers calling attention to the fraud.

About forty New York brokerage houses turned their tickers and fake checks over to the stock exchange authorities, who immediately began an investigation.

Many of the firms executed orders while the checks were being identified. They sold out at once when the character of the checks was discovered. The development heightened the uncertainty in the market and the greatest confusion prevailed.

Steel Common broke to a new low for the year at 10 1/4. Baldwin Locomotive, Stewart Warner and other pivotal stocks took a downward plunge to new lows for the year.

Have you tried this Marvelous Way of Starching Clothes?

EVERY housewife knows the disappointment of using ordinary starch that forms a sticky jelly when it cools. This pasty starch clots and smears when ironing. It fails to penetrate the fabric.

You can now overcome all this with Linit, the scientific starch discovery. Linit is made by an improved process. It remains thin and free-running like water. And it never clots or smears, or causes your iron to stick.

LINIT penetrates every thread of the fabric. This strengthens the garment, helps prevent wear, and prolongs its life.

For every kind of fabric—whether lawn, cotton, linen, gingham, laces or curtains—starch with Linit! Go to your grocer today and get a package of Linit. You'll get real pleasure in using this wonderful new starch.

EYE AFFECTS WHOLE BODY

Why Routine Examination of School Children Is Imperative Is Explained by Authority.

Dr. de Schweinitz, in Hygeia, first points out that only about 4 per cent of eyes are entirely normal according to optical standards. At birth nearly all eyes are far-sighted. Near-sighted eyes most commonly make their appearance from the sixth to the tenth year of life, that is to say especially during school years. Such errors when marked give rise to eyestrain or "weak eyes." While it is true that few eyes are absolutely normal, many approach it so closely that for all practical purposes they may be considered normal. They do not give rise to discomfort, and correcting glasses are not required, at least, in younger years. But it must be realized further that good vision and painless eyes do not necessarily exclude eyestrain; and eyestrain may cause headache, pains in various parts of the body, twitching of the face, night terrors, nervousness, indigestion, and many other symptoms. The need for the routine examination of the eyes of school children is therefore clear, and the possible effects of failure to recognize the fact of eye trouble are pointed out. These effects are not limited to the eye itself. "The eye is not confined, as it were, to a little area of its own, subject to diseases and defects unconnected with the rest of the body. Quite the contrary. It is most intimate in its relations to the rest of the body." "The problems which surround it, whether they relate to optical faults or to disease, are medical problems, and must be solved with this fact always in view."

SELF-PITY SHOWS WEAKNESS

Can Properly Be Set Down Not Only as a Bad Habit, but a Poisonous One.

Have you among your friends or acquaintances any men or women who are always pitying themselves? If so, you can set them down as weaklings. Self-pity is self-destruction. Self-pity saps one's self-reliance. Self-pity breeds despair. The strong don't indulge in self-pity. They are too busy thinking and working and talking constructively. They are intent on attaining some object, some goal. They are so engrossed in practicing self-help that they have no time to waste on self-pity.

Self-pity is not only a bad habit; it is a poisonous habit. It hurts self and it disgusts others. The person who is chronically guilty of self-pity hasn't in him the spirit of self-sacrifice, and without self-sacrifice no human being can qualify to go far or rise far. Self-pity reveals a lack of self-discipline. We all encounter difficulties and discouragements; we all have ambitions thwarted. But we do not let discouragements discourage; we do not give up because balked and thwarted time and again; we do not wear our occasional streaks of pessimism on our sleeve or on our countenance. We keep a stiff upper lip. We wrestle on. And we smile on. We don't become cry babies. We may inwardly wince, but we don't flinch. We don't pour tales of woe into the ears of others—we know they have troubles enough of their own.

We refuse to be cowards. We refuse to wear the white feather. We strive to be men. We become men. We are men.—Forbes Magazine.

Clerk's One-Cylinder Mind.

"I usually know what I want and when I do I ask for it explicitly," said the Man Who Grumbles. "Yesterday I entered a paint store and to the clerk who offered to wait on me I said: 'I want a quart of white paint, best quality, for wood to be used outside.'"

"The clerk seemed puzzled. He studied a moment and asked: 'How much do you want?' I told him. He seemed satisfied and after a brief pause asked: 'Interior or outside?' I again supplied the information. He made no objection but still sought information. 'Going to use it on wood?' he suggested. I assured him that I intended to smear it on my window frames and they are of wood.

"I thought the transaction was about to be closed, but the clerk was still in doubt on one point. 'What color?' he asked cheerfully. I satisfied his curiosity and he got the paint for me. Stupid? Not a bit. He simply had a one-cylinder mind. I had supplied too many facts for him to assimilate at once."—New York Sun.

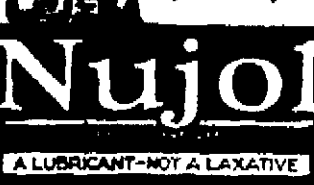

Nature Leading Art.

The true artist does not find all beauty in the human face or form. He looks upon the sunset, painting all the clouds with rosy hue, and his highest wish is to create another scene like this. He never dreams that he could paint a sunset fairer than the one which lights the fading world. A fairer sunset would be something else. He sees beauty in the quiet lake, the grassy field, and running brook; he sees majesty in the cataract and mountain peak. He knows that he can paint no streams and mountain peaks more perfect than the ones that nature made. —Clarence S. Darrow.

CAN GO LONG WITHOUT FOOD

Healthy Human Being, Drinking Plenty of Water, Will Survive Fast of Forty Days.

Some weeks ago a pig disappeared from its sty on a Cornish farm. Search was made, but the creature could not be found, and was given up for lost.

Twenty-four days later a man passing an old wheelbarrow heard something below, and made a search. There was poor pligs, some thirty feet down, quite unhurt, and it was speedily got out.

It was thin, but otherwise not a bit the worse, and at once started feeding ravenously, says London Answers.

It takes a long time to starve a fat pig, which can actually lose half its weight before it dies. Most full-grown animals can go without food for a long time, and can lose as much as two-fifths of their weight before succumbing. An exception is the mole, which when deprived of food, starves to death in less than 48 hours.

A healthy human being can fast 40 days if he or she takes plenty of water. A case is on record of a woman going 48 days without food, during which time her weight decreased from 143 to 99 pounds.

Children cannot fast for long without fatal consequences. They collapse after a fast of three to five days, and lose a quarter of their weight.

Snakes, of course, are the champion fasters. The big python in the zoo recently went more than two years without a meal.

How to Get Used to Noises.

"What I like about the neighborhood," insisted the enthusiastic resident of Brooklyn Heights, "is the quiet. No trolleys, no elevated road, no heavy trucks thundering through our streets, no sound from the subway. Why, I think—"

"Just a minute," objected his friend from across the bridge. "You live so near the harbor that your back door is virtually a dock, and yet you have the nerve to tell me that yours is a quiet neighborhood. What about the tugs and harbor craft that go tooting up and down the bay all night?"

"Well," admitted the Brooklynite, "I do remember hearing a toot or two the first few nights I lived there. But I never hear 'em now."

"Exactly," said the Manhattan man. "Just what I thought. Used to 'em now. That's just the way the elevated and the trolley trucks affect me now. Any neighborhood's quiet if you live there long enough."—New York Sun

A Quack Quacks.

A quack cure for the evils of reckless driving is offered by a psychologist, who says the slow, nervous driver who has in his mind or his subconsciousness the vision of a wreck is the one who goes headlong into a crash. "Instead of a vision of the accident and how it happens the driver must have a clear vision of how to drive correctly" in critical situations.

Every seventeen-year-old driver of a light delivery truck proceeds with perfect self-confidence, proceeding in many cases without regard to the rights of other drivers, feeling that the impressive displacement of his vehicle in the atmosphere ahead of the driver of a passenger vehicle will warn that driver not to stand up for his rights. He has a clear vision of how to drive. He sees himself hogging the road and getting away with it.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

True Sacrificial Spirit.

Dad was having one of his economical fits. Bluebelle received a solemn caution to cut down on expenses. Dad pointed out a number of things the government was taxing and declared that more would be added to the list. He said he had even heard it rumored that the authorities were contemplating slapping a tax on bridge games.

The girl was not greatly disturbed. "All right," chirped Bluebelle. "I'm willing to play bridge all day long for my country."

Sociability an Asset.

A political candidate, on paying a second visit to the house of a doubtful voter of the agricultural class, was very pleased but somewhat surprised on hearing from the elector that he would support him.

"Glad to hear it," said the candidate. "I thought you were against me." "I was at first," said the other. "The other day when you called here and stood by that pig sty and talked for half an hour you didn't budge me an inch."

"But after you had gone away, sir, I got to thinkin' how you'd reached your hand over the rail and scratched the pig's back until he lay down with the pleasure of it. I made up my mind then that when a man was so sociable as that with a poor fellow creature I wasn't the man to vote against him."—Harper's Magazine.

Royal Wedding Group. OCTOBER 1917

Here is the first picture to reach America of the Duke of York's wedding party posed immediately after the second son of the British rulers had married Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon in historic Westminster Abbey in London. At the left are Lady Mary Cambridge, who is soon to marry the Marquis of Worcester, Lady Mary Thynne, and the Hon. Diamond Harcourt, with the Hon. Elizabeth Elphinstone in front. At the right are the Duke and his bride are Lady Mae Cambridge, Lady Katherine Hamilton and Miss Betty Cator, with Cecilia Bowes-Lyon in front.

"Another One of Those Wait-a-Minute Calls"

"BILL, I felt like hanging up on that man. This habit some people have of ordering some one to get me on the telephone and then making me wait until they get ready to talk is one of the biggest discourtesies in business today."

"My time is worth money. There's no reason why I should waste it waiting for some man to complete a call he started."

"If people who call me had as high regard for their time and my good will as I have for my time and their good will, they would do as I do—he ready to talk the moment the connection they start is established."

Of all bad telephone habits the one most universally condemned by business men is the "wait-a-minute" habit. It is a habit that not only causes loss of time and business friendship, but often turns away profitable trade.

When you start a call, the courteous, businesslike thing to do is to remain at your telephone and be ready to talk.

When you receive a call do what you want people to do when you call—answer promptly.

The better your use of the telephone, the more valuable its service becomes.

IN FRENCH GOWNS

Skirts Wider, but Not So Long as Last Season; Every Period Is Represented.

Paris fashions have bloomed this spring with more than their usual brightness and beauty, observes a fashion writer in the New York Times. Although there is no great change in the silhouette as it appears to the casual eye, there has been an unusual change in the way in which that silhouette is achieved. Whereas formerly the straight lines were really cut straight, now they are made up of combinations of plaits and circular cuts and of trimmings and godets and inserts that are astonishing once they have been revealed. There seems a tendency to slip into a more formal era, doing the trick gently without too much publicity about its introduction.

At any rate, the skirts are decidedly wider than they have been and not so long it would seem. This time last year they were going down, down, down, to the consternation of the women of America, despite the way they might have been accepted in France, and now they are creeping upward again, though not with any great speed. They come in different lengths from different designers, but none of them is so long as to be startling.

Sleeves are growing less and less spectacular because, as the skirts advance in ornamentation, sleeves necessarily must recede from the center of the stage of dress design. Capes and coats are full and ample in all of their lines and proportions and are trimmed with flounces and inserts of the plaits and panels, so that they become voluminous series of lines surrounding the basic foundation of the figure.

As for period design, there seems to be a dress for every period. From the Egyptian, which has had so sudden a vogue, to the drooping lines of the Flounced, Plaited Skirt. One of the Spring Fashion Features.

Victorian era, they range all through the various expressions of woman's dress. But most of these period styles are only to be seen as influences. They have their effect in one way or another, but are applied to the dress which expresses the woman of the day. However, from among the array of differing styles it is possible for each woman to choose the best, just as she comes her, selecting lines and designs that will make her personally stand out to its best advantage.

The Clothes and Poke Shapes Hold the Lead

The small clothes and poke shapes will lead in the new hats, according to a fashion authority. There also are many smart shapes, beautiful in their unusual development of rounded brim and poked-up crown. The short lace veil, ribbon trimmed or fastened to the crown with a bit of metallic ribbon, is the latest whim of fashion. Ostrich and peacock feathers are generously used. The stiff louvered clover and tiny ribbon flowers are shown in exquisite colorings. Ribbon is in evidence on hats of all types—in plaits, bands, cords of all shapes and sizes, loops in groups and strips, quills and upturned brims of ribbon.

How to Clean Black Silk.
Old instructions for cleaning black silk and ribbons tell us to boil black kid gloves in a pint of water for an hour, strain, add a quart of hot water and a teaspoonful of borax. With this liquid sponge the silk very thoroughly, then rinse well in a large quantity of lukewarm water, to which a liberal allowance of borax has been added. If this is done on a bright day, and ribbons hung carefully on the line, it will drip and need no ironing.

A mistake in her schedule of lectures gave Mrs. Fair a week layoff. Thankful for the opportunity, she wired her husband Jeffrey that she was coming home. When she arrived, there was no one to meet her at the station. Puzzled, she made her way to the apartment. On a table was the unopened telegram. Just then the phone rang. A woman's voice, smooth and unfamiliar, inquired for Jeff. "Just tell him I called. He will understand," she said meaningly. Mrs. Fair had her first inkling of the trouble ahead. Her selfishness had its price.

Shaking shoulders and cocktails.
Painting the town and her lips red.
Burning up cigarettes and moonlit roads.

While Mrs. Fair was away getting famous, her daughter Sylvia knew all the flapper follies. They have their price!

HERMAN ZIPFEL FALLS AGAIN

Herman Zipfel fell down a flight of stairs at the City Home Saturday afternoon and sustained injuries which required his removal to the Benedictine Hospital in the ambulance. It was found that he had sustained an abrasion on his head and his leg was injured. Mr. Zipfel is a well known German resident of Kingston and a cabinet maker by trade.

Some time ago while residing in the rooms of the building adjoining the old St. Nicholas church, Zipfel fell from the porch on which he was sitting and sustained injuries. He was injured so badly that he never fully recovered the use of it. Owing to his advanced age and inability to work at his trade he became an inmate at the City Home. His injuries Saturday were not serious.

ANNUAL MEETING OF SCHOOL NO. 5 P. T. A.

On Tuesday, May 1, the Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 5 held their final meeting. At this meeting the election of officers for the ensuing year took place. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. E. H. Fowler; Secretary, Mrs. F. Rich; Treasurer, Mrs. Reeban. The past year has been one of the most successful in the history of the organization and the members feel confident that under the leadership of the newly elected officers the following year will be equally successful.

After the business meeting a most interesting program was furnished by the pupils of the first grade consisting of a series of folk dances. Following the program delicious refreshments were served.

Fountain of Jewels.

The use of Norwegian Jewels, which became famous at the Panama-Pacific exposition in 1915, for electrical fountains is believed by the illuminating engineering laboratory of the General Electric company to be a particularly happy field for these gems as the result of the electrical show at Pittsburgh, which has just closed. An electrical fountain in which 20,000 of the jewels were displayed beneath the rays of searchlights and amid the falling waters was one of the spectacular sights at the show. The installation was directed by W. D. Ryan, head of the illuminating engineering laboratory, who introduced these jewels to the American public.

She Missed the Joke.

My queerest boss was inclined to become playful at intervals and business would be suspended while he topped with some of the younger girls in the office, sometimes for 15 or 20 minutes.

One day he drew a little girl down on his knee, saying he would keep her there until she "took back" something she had said to him. She was struggling madly to free herself from his grasp, and the rest of the office force were laughing loudly when she should step in the door but his very jealous wife. She took in the picture at a glance, and walked into the boss' private office—Exchange.

Ancient Work of Art.

An ivory statuette, about six inches high, made from a mammoth's tusk has been found in a grotto at Lepigne Haute-Garonne, France. It represents a woman and was no doubt carved with sharp flint in the paleolithic period, when the climate of France, its fauna and flora were like those of northern Africa, and when the mammoth roamed through vast forests. The statuette is, therefore, presumably one of the oldest known works of art in the world. Its age may be anything from 20,000 to 60,000 years.

Birds Never on Strike.

Birds constitute a great army of feathered workmen, many of them working for us 365 days in the year, without pay and without even the necessity of supervision, says Nature Magazine of Washington. They never meet us with black looks they are always cheerful; they never ask for higher wages and they never go on strike. It would seem that there should be the keenest competition for their services, and the best way to compete is to give them protection and encouragement by every means in our power.

"The Madness of Youth"

A story of a thief, jewels, an heiress and a wayward girl

Vernor Alexanderson and Mrs. H. D. Grenell

Here is the first photograph of little Vernor ("Dodo") Alexanderson, six-year-old son of E. F. W. Alexanderson, a member of the Radio Corporation of America, of Schenectady, New York, after he had been rescued from his kidnappers. He is shown with Mrs. H. D. Grenell, an accomplice of the kidnappers, who had been in her custody in an isolated cottage at Theresa, New York. The girl that acted as the child's playmate at Theresa is shown with Vernor, of Ogdensburg, New York, has been definitely identified as the leader of the kidnapping band.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

Myrtle Steadman, Huntley Gordon, Cullen Landis, Carmel Myers and many other favorites in "The Famous Mrs. Fair" will be at Keene's tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The double feature attraction at the Opera House tonight and Tuesday is Tom Mix in "Three Jumps Ahead," a lively action western melodrama, together with John Gilbert in "The Madness of Youth," an action story in which the follies of the young lead to many serious complications.

Today, tomorrow and Wednesday the management of the Orpheum offers a Rex Beach masterpiece featuring Thomas Meighan in "The Noter By Day" It is called the best melodrama and romance—a triumph of melodrama. Lila Lee in the cast.

Olive Bridge Social.

A box social will be given at the Olive Bridge Social Hall, Thursday night, May 9. Each girl is requested to bring a box with lunch for two. Dancing and games. Good night.

Make Furniture Purchases Now, Babson Tells Public

By ROGER W. BABSON
President, Babson's Statistical Organization

Relative to the furniture business we quote Mr. Babson (who is quite the most noted statistician in the country): "I forecast great activity for this industry during 1923." "There is liable to be a furniture shortage even." "Those who contemplate buying new furniture during 1923 should buy now."

We made large purchases early and our prices are less than if we had waited until later to buy. We have Oak Dressers that we can sell as low as $18.00 with mirror and of course we have better ones that sell up to $250.00.

We try to meet the demands of every purse.

A few of the new items received in the Floor Coverings Department:

Rag Carpet by the yard. Overbraided Rag Rugs. Klearfax Linen Rugs. Linoleum Art Rugs, burlap back.

Mottie Axminster Rugs, 27x54, price $4.50.

BIRD NEWS

"I've been hearing such interesting bird news," said Billie Browne, "I heard, too, that many shrubs can be planted and many trees, too, which will attract birds and which will serve as dining rooms for the birds. Some of these shrubs will be so much enjoyed by the birds that they'll never think of eating berries and fruit which humans want to eat."

SWINEHART IDEAL TRUCK TIRES

Get Our Prices

Regular sizes in stock.

The SWINEHART Truck Tire, Cellular Type, with increased wearing surface and special feature tread, assures owners a double dividend in bonus mileage and unusually satisfactory service.

It is the only satisfactory anti-skid, non-heating semi-pneumatic punctureless tire on the market.

Anti-Skid Feature. The radial holes form a gripping suction on slippery streets, making it possible for the driver to operate his truck in safety and confidence and without the use of chains.

The size and depth of the holes as well as the angle of slant are all correctly designed and based on exhaustive scientific tests.

Non-Heating. Heat, generated by friction on the road and the continued frequent compressions of the rubber, is a most destructive agent on tires.

The Swinehart Cellular Tire very materially overcomes this, as the holes in the tread allow free displacement of rubber and serve a cooling purpose similar to a radiator on a car.

Compare the Swinehart Ideal Cellular with any other truck tire. The Swinehart has a greater height and greater volume of rubber so shaped that it will support and transport the load, this means the load and the truck itself is properly cushioned, and means greater economy in tire mileage and much less truck upkeep expense.

NAVY MAY ROW AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Season's Triumphs Likely to Change Attitude of Academy Authorities Toward Racing.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Annapolis, May 7.—The victory of the Naval Academy crew over Princeton and Harvard on Saturday coupled with the triumphs over Pennsylvania and Massachusetts Tech in the earlier races, has made it practically certain that it will be one of the contestants in the Poughkeepsie regatta, in spite of the early and definite official announcement that it would not enter this year. In view of the fact that the Naval Academy crew has demonstrated that it is a factor in the championship race this year the result at Poughkeepsie is not likely to be decisive unless there is a change in the attitude of the Naval Academy authorities. This can be taken as an assured fact, though the official announcement has not been made.

Last year permission was given with reluctance for the Naval Academy crew to enter the big event, but it was felt that it should defend the honors won the previous year. At that time and later it was said definitely that the entry could not be expected again for some years. The unexpectedly good showing of the green Navy crew, for there is only one veteran on it, has created a similar situation this year and the Navy feels that it cannot allow its sportsmanship to be questioned.

There is only one circumstance which might interfere with the entry, and that would be that the Navy crew would be decisively defeated by Syracuse here on the 19th. A defeat in a close race would not change the situation, but an overwhelming defeat would indicate that the Navy crew was not an important element in the championship race.

HASBROUCK PARK NINE BEATEN BY CUBS

The Cubs baseball club continued its winning streak by defeating the Hasbrouck Park team, 16-12, Saturday afternoon. Both sides did some heavy slugging and a big score was rolled up. Nevertheless the game was tight and called for two extra innings, when the Cubs took the game by making four runs. Wells did the honors for the Cubs, getting 6 hits out of 6 times at bat, while Costello did the best work for Hasbrouck Park getting 3 hits out of 5 times up.

The Cubs will go to Saugerties this coming Sunday.

Warren J. Lincoln, a well-to-do Aurora (Illinois) man, has strangely disappeared from his home. A blood-stained Indian club was found in the rear of his home, together with signs of a struggle. At the same time Lincoln's wife, Mrs. Lina Shoup Lincoln from whom he was estranged, and her brother, Byron Shoup, who had an altercation with Lincoln, vanished, and no trace of them has been found. Lincoln lived alone with Marie Klein, a 12-year-old girl, who acted as his housekeeper and who has given the police much valuable information.

Miss Doris Fuchs, a friend of the girl who acted as a model of Lillian Mount, was one of the students of Western University, Evanston, Illinois, whose body was found in a breakwater in Lake Michigan, and who sought to throw light on the murder, which is believed to have been committed by several students in a class rush. At the time Mount disappeared Miss Fuchs was quoted as saying he had professed his love for her and that she thought he had committed suicide.

A novel way to impress upon automobile speeders the results of their joy rides was used in Detroit by Judge Charles L. Bartlett. Thirteen children, all of whom had been seriously injured by reckless motorists, were seated in the jury box, while Judge Bartlett tried 160 automobile drivers accused of speeding or driving while intoxicated.

SHAVING BY EAR

Far From an Easy Job While on a Noisy Train.

Traveler Used to the Quiet of Home Botched the Work in Car Dressing-Room.

The chances are ten to one that you think you shave by ear when actually you shave by eye. The other morning Mr. Morton was awakened by the sleeping car porter just as he was getting to sleep for the night before. He arose, pretty foggy, and went into the dressing-room and essayed to shave himself.

He had not tried to shave himself on a moving train for a good many years. A New York Sun writer goes on to explain, and the way he lathered up his nose and eyes and hair before lathering up his cheeks was a spectacle that attracted considerable interest among the other men sitting around smoking and awaiting their turns at the wash stands. There even were some in the audience who discussed the possibility of his being intoxicated instead of just being a poor balancer.

Under the careful attention of all those present he began to shave himself. Then he made the great discovery. He had not been shaving by eye all these years, but by the sound that the razor had made as it scraped along his face—when it had stopped making a noise that had either meant that his hair had been whittled off or that it had been sufficiently discouraged so it wouldn't lift up for a day or so.

But he soon found shaving on the train was different than in the quiet of his home. The train made so much noise he couldn't hear the razor very distinctly.

The discovery so surprised him that he said, "Well, say, that's a funny one!" right out loud, just as if his wife were standing beside him combing her hair back at home.

Mr. Morton shaved himself, keeping interest up as he did so by throwing his body against the furniture in unique attitudes and striking himself in the face with his razor, so that it gave the audience a chance to talk about laying bets on whether he would go the limit with himself or knock himself out in an early round; and then he sort of fell into the wash basin with the idea of washing his face there, and after that mashed his face against the looking glass a couple of times with the towel in between, and finally turned around and staggered out into the middle of the room, crying out a cheery "Next!"

Well, that was the saddest moment of his life. Five men sat there before him, staring up at him as if he were a house afire or a dog fight or something else as important as that; and suddenly, as he stood there looking down at them in considerable surprise and interest himself, every one of those five faces cracked open and began to laugh.

"Look at that awful map!" sobbed one of them. "Look at those tufts of wool on it!"

"He looks mangy to me," whooped another.

"Wow!" wept a third. "This is ludicrous! I want to die! I want to die before I wake!"

Mr. Morton took one look at his tufted face in the glass and fled.

He traveled the next two hours with his head bowed down behind one hand, making out that he was sleepy, and then he got out of the train with his hat sitting on his nose and went home through the back streets on foot. But he couldn't escape his wife. When she opened the door and started to kiss him it was all up. She just laid her neck against the door casing and carried on in a way that is the talk of the neighborhood yet.

The Sulphur Industry.
The crisis in the age-long sulphur industry of Sicily, due largely to the recent exploitation of sulphur deposits in Louisiana by means of the process of melting the sulphur beneath the ground with superheated steam and then pumping it out, has led to an attempt to re-establish the Sicilian industry by utilizing the raw sulphur mineral itself, together with the finely broken masses hitherto thrown away for the production of sulphuric acid. This comes into competition with the manufacture of sulphuric acid from iron pyrites. It is said that the sulphur mineral has many advantages over pyrites.

"Mother's Compliments."
Neighbor Woman—So your mother wants to borrow my clothes-wringer, does she?
Tenant Child—Yes, 'cause brudder put Kiddy's tail in it 'n spoiled it all to pieces. 'n muvver says you're a horrid old woman if you don't; but don't tell her I said so, 'n I think you are anyway, so there—where's your wringer?—Harvard Lampoon.

Nice Once Lie.
Muriel—Men are all liars.
Annie—Oh, don't say that, dear. That is too broad a generalization.
Muriel—Well, I suppose there are some honest, plain-spoken fellows who are not, but all the really nice men are.—Boston Transcript.

Cutty Steel.
The crapple or cutty steel was a steel once used in the Scottish church for punishment of offenders against chastity. The sinner was required to sit in full view of the congregation and at the close of service, rise for remand by the minister.

How He Revived Her Love

By CORONA REMINGTON

(Copyright, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

"Jeanette, I've come to talk to you, dear, and very seriously too. I've been thinking things over for weeks and at last I've made up my mind."

Fred Ormsby crossed his long slender legs and lighted a cigar.

"Oh, do tell me, Fred. You know I'm interested in anything that concerns you."

Jeanette McDowee, in her little pink organdie, looked like some fairy thing as she sat beside her lover and looked up at him, her big brown eyes wide with curiosity.

"Yes, you're interested in me except when it comes to marrying me," said the man half bitterly.

"Now, Fred, don't be horrid and begin that all over again," she begged, "but tell me what it was you were going to say."

"All right. It's going to be a long talk."

"Go on. How you do love to create suspense, you old tease, you."

"I'm not teasing. This is no light matter. Jeanette, yesterday I was thirty-three years old. It came to me like a shock when I glanced up at the calendar and realized it. Thirty-three is no longer young. Soon I'll be getting bald and gray around the temples and not long after that I'll be buying stout and—"

"Mercy! How morbid you are tonight," laughed Jeanette putting her fingers in her ears. "I won't listen to another word of such talk because I'm only ten years behind you and women usually get there younger than men and that makes it worse."

"Ten years! If I were your age I would never have reached the conclusion I did last night."

"Oh, yes, you were going to tell me."

"First of all, I don't want you to think I'm cold-blooded or calculating or anything of the sort. I'm simply trying to make the best I can out of life. I don't want to take the step I'm about to take, but it seems the lesser of two evils. Since I've been proposing to you at regular intervals for over a year and you've turned me down every time, I've decided there's no hope. At first I nearly drove me mad, and I vowed I'd never marry any one if I couldn't marry you, but the idea of a lonely old age was too much for me, and at 12 o'clock tonight I'm going to Chicago to ask Agnes Flawson to marry me. I met her five years ago, and we've kept up the acquaintance ever since. If I had never known you I should probably have been very happy with her. As it is, I'm going to make the best of it and pray that I shall make her the husband she deserves."

For one stunned moment Jeanette stared at the man beside her. Could it be possible that this was the man who had been at her beck and call for three years? Could this be the man who had sworn that he could never bear the thought of loving another woman? Could this be the man she had always depended upon to do anything she wanted—to come when she wanted—to go when and where she wanted? Yet, after all, why shouldn't he? It was certainly just and fair and she had had her chance. Three whole years of his love and time and attention.

He waited tensely for her to say something.

"I—I hope you don't think any the less of me for it," he said at last. "That's one thing I simply couldn't bear."

"Why, no, Fred, how could I? Besides, it makes it so much easier for me to tell you something I think you ought to know."

"Heavens! Is there something troubling you, too?"

"No, not troubling me, only Fred Wilson wired yesterday he'd be here tomorrow and—and he wants me to marry him—and I think I'll say 'yes.' You know we were together a good bit the first year I met you. Then he moved to Springfield. Remember him?"

"Yes, I remember him and, Lord, how I envy him!"

"Well, aren't you going to wish me any happiness or anything?" asked Jeanette indignantly.

"Of course I do, dear. I wish you all the happiness I would love to give you myself."

"Thank you, Fred. You're an old dear."

During the rest of the evening Jeanette was amazingly cheerful and vivacious. Fred wretchedly decided he had never seen her quite so happy and when he said good-by he could scarcely keep the huskiness out of his voice.

"We'll always be friends, won't we?" he asked.

"Always," she answered warmly.

Jeanette spent a restless night, but as she entered the breakfast room her eyes were brilliant with suppressed excitement and Mrs. McDowee was at a loss to understand her daughter's peculiar manner.

"Jeanette, I never saw you so excited. What on earth is the matter?" asked her mother.

"Nothing, mother, I'm not a bit excited."

"Oh, there's a telegram came for you. I put it under your plate, dear."

"Probably from Tom. He said he'd wire how the game came out last night," said Jeanette as she listlessly ripped open the envelope.

"Forgive me for deceiving you," the message ran, "I had no intention of proposing to any one else and only told you that in the hope of bringing you around, Fred."

Quickly Jeanette scribbled a line at the bottom:

"Oh, did, Love, Jeanette."

"It didn't, get John to rush this off," she said, jumping up. "I wonder whether he'll get it in-time to catch the 9 o'clock train back?"

"Who'll get what?" asked her mother placidly.

"Oh, nothing. I'll jump in the car and send it myself. It's dreadfully important."

"Probably an invitation to a house party next June," said Mr. McDowee, going back to the morning paper as his daughter flitted out of the door.

LONG TERMS IN CONGRESS

American Law is Not So Favorable to Youth as It is in the British Parliament.

His near fifty years in congress bracketed Uncle Joe Cannon's name with that of Gladstone.

But it was 61 years from the time Gladstone was first elected to parliament until the last parliament of which he retained a seat was dissolved, observes the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Henry Clay's span in congress was about forty-six years, although there were in his case long interruptions. Benton's thirty years were made the title of a book, while Raine's "Twenty Years in Congress" once seemed an impressive mouthful.

Simon Cameron, off and on, represented Pennsylvania in the United States senate over a stretch of thirty-two years, sandwiching a Russian ambassadorship and a cabinet place with Lincoln in his senatorial career.

Our American law is a bar to quite so long a tenure in congress as Englishmen may have in parliament. One must be at least twenty-five before he can be a representative and thirty is the minimum for a senator.

In England twenty-one is a zero point for a member of parliament. Gladstone was but twenty-three when first elected.

Of England's thirty-seven prime ministers eleven began their careers in parliament at twenty-one and the average for all was but twenty-five.

When a man goes to congress at thirty his extreme youth is a matter for gossip and newspaper comment. "Uncle Joe" was well past thirty when he went to Washington.

At one time in England there lived 19 past or future prime ministers.

In 1892 there lived 17 past, present or future Presidents of the United States.

The London Times says the dean and chaplain of Westminster abbey have decided to comply with the request made in January under the signatures of Prime Minister Bonar Law, the earl of Balfour, Herbert H. Asquith, David Lloyd George and Lord Grey, to erect a tablet in the abbey in the memory of Walter Hines Page, once American ambassador to the court of St. James, according to a New York Times dispatch.

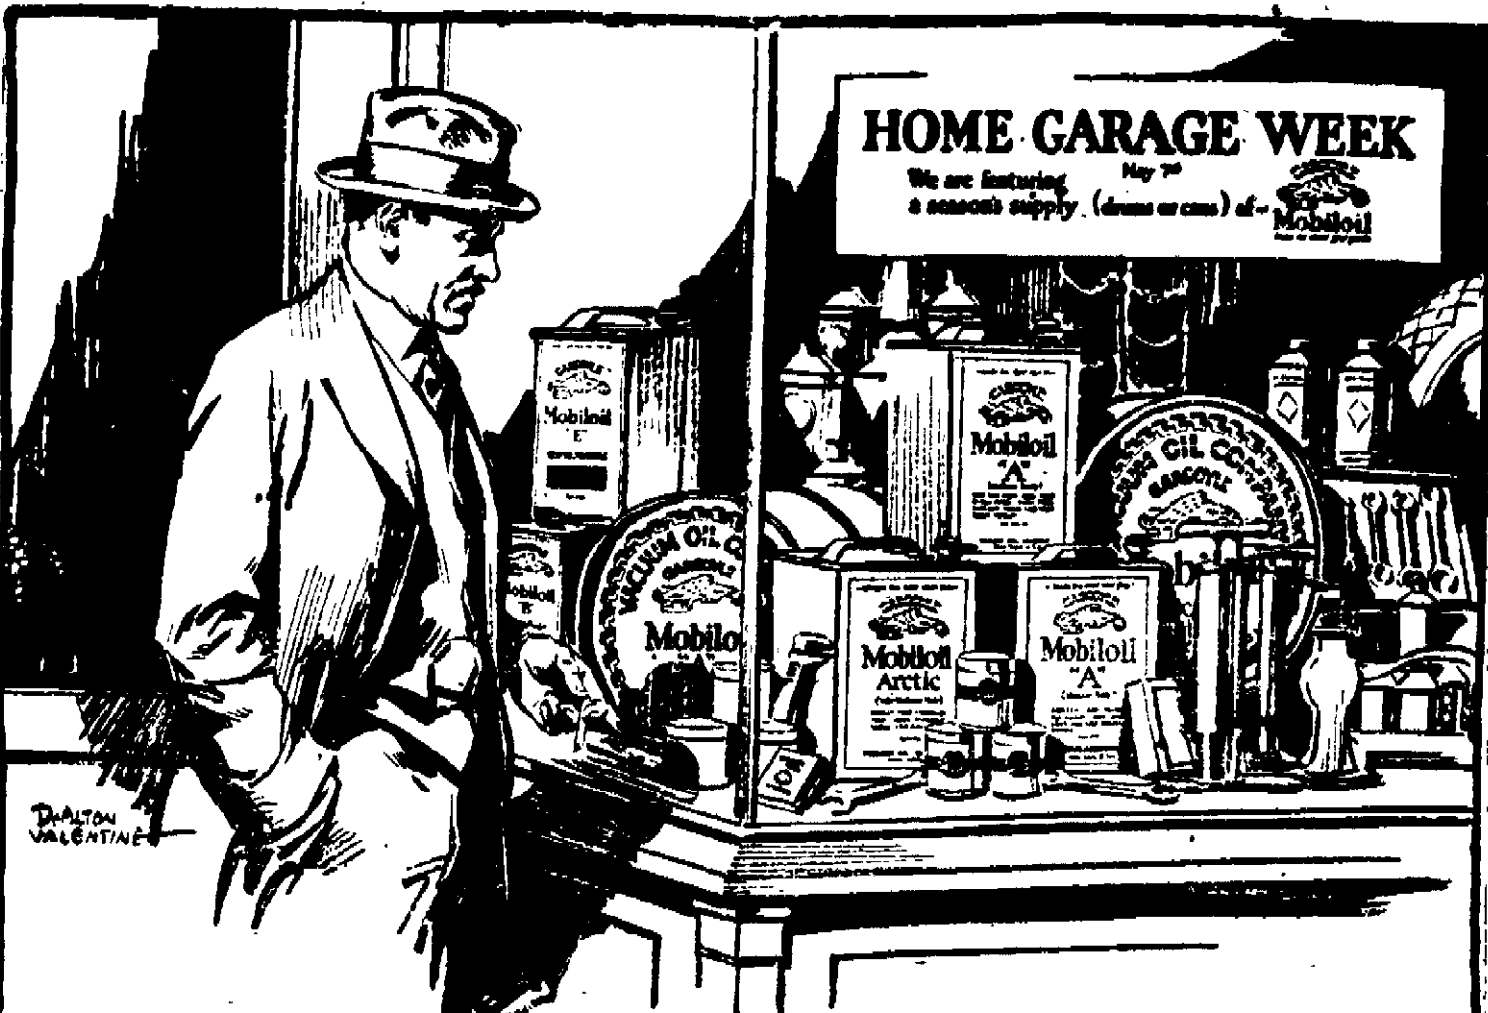

The tablet will be placed near the monument to James Russell Lowell, at one time American minister to Great Britain.

The London Times in an editorial which warmly approves the decision of the church authorities, says it would be peculiarly fitting to place a memorial to the late Viscount Bryce in the same part of the abbey, "as his memory may fitly be associated with that of Mr. Page as a strenuous and convincing worker in the same cause."

No Place for Imitations.

We thought it was about time for some one to commit a brand new Spoonerism. It was at a prayer meeting and the young minister calling upon a Mr. Crose who was in the congregation said solemnly: "And now I am going to ask Brother Pray if he will please crow for us."—Boston Transcript.

This is Home Garage Week

What's missing in your Home Garage? Check up!

If "the lady of the house" is to be judged by the condition of her kitchen, surely her husband can be judged by the condition of his home garage.

How about yours? Is your tool equipment complete? Are your supplies adequate? Is everything in apple-pie order?

Do you always have on hand an adequate supply of the correct grade of Gargoyle Mobiloil?

The best operating results are secured by having your oil at the proper level before you leave your home garage.

Again, every motorist knows that his crank-case should be drained regularly and an entire fresh supply of oil put in. This is best done when the engine is warm. And for this purpose also, you should at all times have a good supply of Gargoyle Mobiloil in your home garage.

An adequate supply of Gargoyle Mobiloil

Complete Equipment—
Complete Supplies—

in time and repairs.

is the most important single supply you can put in your Home Garage.

How to buy for your Home Garage

During this week of May 7th to 12th, dealers all over the country are giving the home garage owner special attention. They have put in ample stocks of all grades of Gargoyle Mobiloil in the larger containers.

Gargoyle Mobiloil comes in 1-gallon and 5-gallon cans and 15-, 30-, and 55-gallon steel drums, equipped with a convenient faucet. The 5-gallon can and 15-gallon drum will undoubtedly be very popular, during Home Garage Week. The oil is cheaper than when bought in the 1-gallon can.

See your dealer today. Most leading dealers are displaying the Home Garage Week sign in their windows. They have the Vacuum Oil Company's complete Chart of Recommendations. On it you can quickly find the correct grade of Gargoyle Mobiloil for your car.

At the same time that you buy your Gargoyle Mobiloil, check over your tool and emergency equipment. Most of your summer needs can be anticipated at this one time.

BORGMAN TO LEAVE COLONIALS

Next Sunday—According to information given to friends in this city he has been signed by Philadelphia Nationals.

Benny Borgman, the star shortstop of the Colonials, has informed friends in this city that after next Saturday and Sunday he will not appear with the Colonials again this season.

Borgman has received an exceedingly attractive offer from the Philadelphia National League team and has decided to accept it. He will be with the Philadelphia Nationals all this week. Manager Brown of the Colonials could not be reached to say as he is out of town so that it is not known whether the Colonials will go to take Borgman's place.

Although just at present Benny does not seem to be hitting very well his fielding has been of the best. As far as the hitting part of it is concerned there does not seem to be much doubt but that he will strike his old stride before the season has advanced very far.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, May 7.—Advances from a fraction to over 3 points were scored at the opening of the stock market today, the result of large covering operations, especially in New York Central, Chile Copper and Corn Products, which rose 2 1/4 and 2 1/2 points to 23 1/4, 29 1/4 and 121 respectively. Steel stocks opened irregular, U. S. Steel declining 1/4 to 10 1/4, Crucible 1/4 to 7 1/4 and Gulf States Steel 1/4 to 5 1/4.

Equipment stocks were firm, Baldwin Locomotive improving 1/4 to 12 1/4, 12 1/4, Studenbaker 1/4 to 11 1/4, O. I. closed opened irregularly, Pan American trading 1/4 to 7 1/4, while Maryland Oil rose 1/4 to 4 1/4.

American Tobacco was strong, advancing 1/4 to 15 1/4 and Tobacco Products 1/4 to 5 1/4.

After displaying strength in certain issues at the opening, stocks were subjected to heavy liquidation. Heavy sell in U. S. Steel caused 1/2 point loss to 10 1/4, a new low for the year. Republic and Crucible Steel both yielded over 2 points to 5 1/4 and 6 1/4 respectively. Baldwin yielded to 12 1/4, down 2 points and a new low for the year. Studenbaker declined 2 points to 11 1/4.

Black Truck after early strength, broke four points to 8 1/4.

U. S. Steel broke through par for the first time this year, and losses of two to ten points were sustained by active stocks, as a result of continued liquidation and bearish pressure. Weakness was extended to every part of the speculative list. American Can was down 3 points to 56, Baldwin 3 1/4 to 12 1/4, U. S. Steel 2 1/4 to 9 1/4, Crucible 2 1/4 to 7 1/4, Studenbaker 3 points to 11 1/4, California Petroleum five points to 8 1/4 and Stewart Warner 1 1/4 to 8 1/4.

Historic Fact Hard to Explain.

British jet has been found in very early graves in Spain, linking up Spain with Britain in days long before Remulus founded Rome. Even more interesting is the fact that heads of a peculiar blue color, which are now identified as undoubtedly of Egyptian origin and as dating back to some time between 1500 B. C. and 1200 B. C., have been found in very ancient British graves. So far as has been ascertained, there was no other source than British from which the ancient world could draw the tin it needed in such immense quantities for its bronze.

Gout is Ancient Affliction.

One of the commonest diseases of ancient Egypt was arthritis deformans, or rheumatic gout. Hardly a mummy or skeleton has been found which does not show the changes of this disease in a greater or less degree. This we have still with us, particularly among those who have to live or work in dampness and cold. It stretches back even further than the days of Egypt. Virchow, the great pathologist, found traces of the disease in skeletons of men of the Stone age, and called it "cave gout," from the probability that they had contracted it by living in damp caves.

CIRCUS TO BE HERE ON MAY 19

They'll be noise and hurry and rustling out at the Kingston Fair Grounds on Saturday, May 19, for on that day there come into Kingston for a single day's stay, the Sparks Circus. That's the reason that Saturday morning there will wind through the downtown streets the long twisting lines of red and gold wagons, the troops of horses, the strung out files of elephants—the inevitable parade.

Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock there will begin the first of the two performances in which the announcer will call forth the acts that range all the way from the famous Flying Walters group to dexterous acrobats, to pretty Naida Miller, the world's greatest exponent of high wire evolutions whose act is so wonderful that she rivals the Flying Walters as an attraction. And of course there'll be plenty of clowns, and the Sparks' dancing and high jumping horses, two herds of elephants, acrobatic soles, plus who shoot the chutes, trained lions, tigers, leopards, polar and grizzly bears, trained otters and all that sort of thing. And besides there'll be a genuine English fox-hunt with real fox hounds and the champion long distance and high jumping horses of the world, and—the parade. Seats can be secured on Sunday at Binger's drug store at the same price as at show grounds.

GIANT SPECIES OF CENTIPEDE

Reptiles Found in Trinidad Secrete a Poison Which Enables Them to Paralyze Their Prey.

Trinidad centipedes have been presented to the London zoo, an exchange says. They are more than a foot long, and at the broadest part nearly half an inch across. They are dark brown, with rings on the long feelers and on the legs, a pair of which projects from each flattened segment of the body. These tropical centipedes live in shady places, hidden under bark, stones or dead leaves, moving chiefly at night. They run quickly and can climb vertical surfaces if there is any foothold for their claws. They are entirely carnivorous, living on insects, grubs, small birds or mammals, which they kill with their venom.

It has been shown that the whole of the body of these centipedes secretes a volatile venom, so that even the wounds made by the sharp claws are extremely painful. The under surface of the head carries a formidable pair of poison fangs, the venom of which escapes by a pore in the claw, being formed by large glands at the base of the claws. The venom is an acid opalescent liquid, hardly miscible with water. When injected into the veins of rabbits it produces instantaneous paralysis, with coagulation of the blood; when injected under the skin enormous abscesses are rapidly formed. The bite is very painful to human beings, but has not been known to be fatal, although it causes insomnia, local swelling and occasionally ulcers.

GREAT DAY AMONG SEMINOLES

Florida Indians Made Holiday of Occasion When Whole Tribe Turned Out to Shoot Fish.

In the old days before statehood, fishing was a great holiday with the Seminoles in Florida. A chief fisherman was selected. He appointed the various committees looking towards the fishing; some to gather the "devil's shoestring" some to do the shooting and some to beat the root after it was tied in bundles.

The "devil's shoestring" grew in abundance in the sand hills of Seminole country. The Seminoles dug down deep into the sand until they could get a firm hold on the root and then pulled until it came forth. These roots were then tied in bundles of 12 or more, according to the size of the water stream. A board or log was then erected in the pool and the shoestring beaten with little mallets. It gave off a milky kind of coloring into the water and when this had thoroughly permeated the stream, the fish became intoxicated and would jump out of the water or swim along on their sides.

The shooters would then begin their work with the bow and arrow, and as the larger fish came to the surface they would shoot them with arrows and the younger Indians would pick them out of the stream.

When Chance Befriends.

Inventors have gone a long way towards producing an order whatever man and his necessities require. But invention is not yet an exact science and never is likely to be. Artists and experimenters continue to stumble upon new discoveries. So will Rochester of New York. While working over his vacuum tubes he was unexpectedly called out of the room. He left a book on a table on the book he had been using, and in the book was a note. The key used as a bookmark. Beneath the volume there happened to be a photograph of a plateholder he had ready for an outing that afternoon. When developing some plates later, there upon one of them he found a shadow of the key. He sought an explanation of the curious phenomenon by repairing the tube as before. There was the shadow again on the plate. The X-ray was found.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

SCOUTS LEARN LEADERSHIP

Scouting is often called a school of leadership, because it teaches a boy resourcefulness, self-confidence and initiative.

This training is showing itself prominently in the field of school work, where scouts in many sections of the country are winning high honors.

When the names of this year's Rhodes scholars were announced, that is, the 32 college boys selected from all over the United States to receive a scholarship to attend Oxford university as representatives of this country, because of their high character, intelligence and all-around physical excellence, the Boy Scouts of America wrote to these students and asked, "Have you been a scout?" because they are just the type that scouting aims to develop.

Out of those replying, one-half said they had been scouts, and the other half, with one exception, said they regretted deeply not having been able to join the movement. In almost every case this was because there was no scout troop near home. All but two of the letters declared that scouting is of fundamental value in training boys.

The leadership training of scouting is also emphasized by the Conewago (Pa.) Scout Eagle, in citing the number of boys in the organization who have attained positions of honor in the local high school. The valedictorian of the graduating class; another honor man; the captain of next year's basketball team, succeeding the present scout captain, who graduates this year; the editor-in-chief of the school paper for 1923-24, and its business manager; also the present editor-in-chief of the school annual—all are members of local troops.

The Conewago Eagle further states that in the past three years the scouts have given the old high six captains, five managers and have produced more than sixty variety players in soccer, basketball, baseball, tennis and track. Three classes have selected scouts as their presidents. Two presidents of the athletic association were scouts. Three editors-in-chief of the high school annual, one business manager and twelve members of the staff have belonged to the organization; also during these three years the school paper has had from the field of scouting two editors-in-chief, a business manager and twenty-one members of the staff. "Representatives of the movement are seldom missing among the honor graduates," concludes the Eagle, "and this year from scouting's ranks comes the highest honor student."

SCOUTS SAVE MOTHER'S LIFE

Ask a scout who, through his knowledge of first aid, has saved his mother's life, if scout training counts.

At their home in Des Moines, Ia., on a recent evening A. I. Boreman and his scout sons, Kenner and Charles, heard a sharp crying out from the bathroom upstairs. Mr. Boreman and his sons rushed to answer the call and found the mother lying over the edge of the tub, one hand rigidly clutching the electric heater. It was apparent that Mrs. Boreman, while standing in the water, had grasped the heater. A complete circuit had been established, and before the heavy voltage of electricity had passed through her body, rendering her unconscious, she had been able to call for help.

Mrs. Boreman was apparently dead; no pulse registered. The scouts, however, promptly started giving their mother first aid, to induce respiration. For several tense minutes they worked without noticeable results. Then her pulse began to beat feebly and by the time a physician arrived she had partly revived. It was three hours before the patient regained complete consciousness.

The doctor stated that the boys' emergency measures had, without doubt, saved their mother's life.

SCOUTS AND DADS CELEBRATE

In Alaska, too, fathers and sons are enjoying scouting together. On the evening of the recent presentation of the charter that made Juneau Troop No. 1 a part of the Boy Scouts of America, every registered scout and his father marched into the banquet room together, and it was a question of who was the prouder. The seating arrangement was planned so that a scout and a father alternated along the table, forming a circle long to be remembered by all present," says a local paper.

BOY SCOUTS TRAINED TO SEE

"Scouting teaches boys to be mentally alert, and seeing where they can be of service is true scouting," says an official in speaking of the following "good turn" by Troop 4, Rochester, N. Y.: The members of this troop have met a blind boy each Saturday morning for over two years at a railroad station where they have conducted him to the home of his music teacher, and after the music lesson have seen him safely back to his train.

The World Do Move.

The old boy who used to have his afternoon nap in the twine hammock with his steel-mined specs on his forehead, and then fall asleep after tea, now wears the tortoise-shell kind plays golf and knows the next week's moving picture program by heart.

FOGARTY'S STATUS IS IN DOUBT

The Tannersville Times-Tribune states that Manager Julius Dolan of the Tannersville Baseball Club, has signed "Red" Fogarty of the Peoria club to the team.

Manager Lou Brown of the local club stated over the telephone Saturday that only the past week the local management had received a letter from Fogarty in which he said that if the Cubs desired his services he would only be too glad to play with the local team.

Manager Brown also said that the Hudson valley semi-pro managers had come to a sort of mutual agreement to the effect that if a man signed with one team and then tried to sign with another team the latter would not sign him until they obtained the consent of the former.

Whoever Fogarty plays with he will not be able to start until July 1 as he is a physical instructor in one of the New Jersey schools and his duties there will detain him until that date.

KINGSTON, 11; MIDDLETOWN, 9

Local Manager to State Of Ninth Inning Rally, Corregan Fanning Heaviest Hitter.

Another victory for the baseball team of K. H. S. This time the victory was Middletown High School. The game was played last Saturday at the Asylum City. The final tally scored Kingston at the large end of a score 11-9. The game was close.

After the second inning had been finished it was doubtful who was to win out. Kingston got six runs in the second, but the Middletown bats came back in the next couple and made the contest closer. Both pitchers were hit hard, the two clubs being in good batting form, but the Kingston players backed up Corregan better than did the Middletown men for Goff and Kingston made good on their team work.

There were many good hits. Men on both sides sent the ball to left field more than once for what should have been a three bagger or even a homer, but ground rules made them two base hits. The peculiar place of a wall at the field makes it necessary to have the foul line extend far off the diamond over the top of the concrete balcony. For this reason, in fairness to the left fielders, it is necessary to limit the amount of bases a man may take on a hit in this direction. Vogt was the big hitter of the game with three two base hits, two of which were over the wall, and one three bagger. McLane, Ummelle and Corregan were also hitting well for the locals. Baker, Goff and Perrino were the heaviest hitters for Middletown. Mead also made good on five singles. Perrino was the star on bases. He has credit for having stolen three bases. Schmidt made good twice. Ummelle, Coddington, Corregan, Goff and Mead each took one chance and made good. Aside from the heavy hitting the work of Corregan in the last inning, the shining point in the game was the great catches by Hauser and McLane. Howard climbed the wall after a fly and caught it. McLane ran half the length of the outfield to catch a fly that meant saving two runs and held the ball securely in his mitt. The umpiring was good. At several times McGrath's decisions seemed poor, but on the whole his work was good and impartial.

The best view of the game itself can be gotten by following through the plays.

Kingston batted first, with Hauser leading. Goff walked him. Howard singled and Hauser ran to second. Messinger was caught out when he flied to Coddington. Vogt was put out on a foul fly caught by Welch. Then came Middletown's turn to bat. How their grounders flied out to Schmidt. Mead got a single, and advanced to second when Perrino sent over a single to center. Goff hit a single. Mead ran for home. McLane was in a pinch of a throw to Whiston, who tagged the runner. The umpire decided that the run should count, concluding that Whiston blocked him with his foot. Perrino made third, McLane was up, and while Corregan was throwing the ball, Goff stole second. Corregan 1-2-3 McLane, as did he Baker. The Brown and White team took their turn at bat soon after the fluky decision in the former inning and determined to get back the leading run. Whiston was up and Goff gave him a complimentary base. McLane singled, advancing Whiston. Schmidt hit to third. Perrino fumbled and Schmidt made first while Whiston made home. Ummelle got a base on balls. Corregan doubled and McLane and Schmidt came home. Hauser struck out. Howard singled, but Ummelle was put out when he attempted to make home. Messinger doubled. Vogt made a triple-bagger, and Howard and Messinger came home. Whiston got up for the second time that inning, but this time he was not so lucky. Goff scored a strike-out. Kingston took the field and Middletown was at bat. Baker flied out to Schmidt. Coddington was caught out on a foul fly. Welch struck out and Kingston again came in for their licks. McLane was caught out at first. Schmidt was given a base on balls. Ummelle singled to right, but on an error by Perrino he made as far as third, while Schmidt made home. Corregan struck out. Hauser did the same. Mead started off for Middletown by striking out. Perrino singled to left. Goff struck out. McLane singled to right. On a wild pitch by Corregan, Perrino came home, and McLane made second. Van Gordon went in as a pinch hitter, but Corregan made short work of him by striking him out.

Again Kingston came to bat. Howard hit to short and was thrown out at first. Messinger flied out to second. Vogt doubled to right. Whiston singled to left while Vogt made quick work of the trip to home. McLane flied out to Perrino. Middletown came back strong this inning. Three men scored runs. Coddington singled to left and stole second. Welch went out when he flied to center. Knight was given a base on balls. Baker doubled to left and Coddington and Knight came home. Mead singled to left and was caught out by Perrino. Perrino went out when McLane caught the fly center. Vogt flied out to Vogt. Kingston failed to make any runs this time. Schmidt was struck out. Ummelle made first on an error by Mead. He stole second. Corregan singled to center and stole second. Hauser struck out. Howard was given a base on balls. Messinger flied his best to score one of the three men on base, but he was caught out by Perrino and Kingston went back to the field with a blank score for the fifth. Coddington was put out at first. Welch went to first on a grounder to short. Knight struck out. Van Gordon went out on a foul tip and Middletown, too, went back to the field without any score. Vogt doubled to left center for Kingston. Whiston struck out and McLane flied out to McLane. Schmidt flied out to Coddington and again Kingston had no score as Middletown came up to bat. Baker singled to left. Mead singled to left.
